Call for Research Papers

SWB No. 04 (2023)

The Department of Social Work, University of Kashmir welcomes the contribution from academicians and practitioners of social sciences background for the upcoming annual issue of "Social Work Bulletin". The Social Work Bulletin aims to promote and disseminate knowledge by publishing theoretical and empirical research papers of relevance to both academicians and practitioners in the field of Social Work in particular and Social Sciences in general. Besides focussing on Social Work knowledge and practice, the journal also publishes articles related to disciplines like law, psychology, sociology, gender studies, anthropology etc.

About Journal

Social Work Bulletin is published to increase the knowledge horizons among social work practice, research, and education. The journal tries to identify current issues, challenges, and responses facing social work practice and education. The journal also focuses on advancements in the social work profession and research areas allied to contemporary social work practice. With this effort Social Work Bulletin seeks to publish empirical, conceptual, and theoretical articles that make substantial contributions in all areas of social work like clinical practice, community work, social welfare administration, social policy, planning, and program evaluation. In a unique effort the journal provides a platform for scholars to exchange their research findings and ideas that advance knowledge and inform social work practice.

Social Work Bulletin is a peer-reviewed annual journal that publishes original work. Articles are accepted on the basis of concepts, methodology and relatedness to the field of social work practice, research, and education and its allied fields.
