Head of the Department
Department of Social Work
University of Kashmir.

'Today the developing and developed countries are facing many challenges to meet their ends. The contemporary era of globalization and market driven economy have increased the gap between the lower and upper sections of the society. This has created a demand for the professionally trained social workers, who can address the issues of inequality, marginalization, weaker and vulnerable sections of our society. We at the department of Social Work are in the process of producing trained human resources who can play significant role in social economic development. The department is happy to admit the students who have interest in Social Work''.
